ABSTRACT

The annotated mediagraphy listing of nonprint media contains information on 951 titles available from 277 sources for the instruction, information, or entertainment of the hearing impaired. The mediagraphy is divided into four main parts: the main entry section, containing the title, medium, physical description, release date, cost availability, subject group, and a brief annotation; a title cross reference section, a sources section (including names, addresses and voice and TTY telephone numbers of sources where items in the main entry section may be obtained); and source cross reference section. Among subject groups included are audiology and speech, deaf/blind, religion, and hearing impairment. A brief bibliography of additional helpful sources is included. (PHR)

FOREWORD

This Mediagraphy was compiled to meet both the operational requirements of the Edward Miner Gallaudet Memorial Library and the needs for audiovisual information relating to deafness that have frequently been expressed by persons and organizations outside the Gallaudet College community.

SCOPE

The Mediagraphy contains descriptions of 951 titles available from 277 sources. Its scope is defined as including any item in any non-book format that is:

1. currently available for purchase, rent or free use;
2. available to persons outside of the originating institution;
3. pertains wholly or in major part to:
   a. deafness and hearing impairment,
   b. hearing impaired people,
   c. manual communication and sign language,
   d. education of the hearing impaired,
   e. audiology,
   f. speech as it relates to the hearing impaired,
4. or is intended for the instruction, information, or entertainment of the hearing impaired.

The Mediagraphy aims to be comprehensive, with four exceptions. To keep its size manageable, the contents of the following publications were not included. These publications are readily available from the sources indicated:

"Catalog of Educational Captioned Films for the Deaf" and "Catalog of Training Films and Other Media for Special Education", published by the Handicapped Learner Materials Distribution Center and available through source number 5;

"Catalog of Captioned Films for the Deaf", published by the Captioned Films for the Deaf Distribution Center of the American Conference of Executives of American Schools for the Deaf and available through source number 6;

"Catalog of Bible Visuals for the Deaf and Materials about Deafness", published by Deaf Missions and available from source number 138.

Additional helpful sources containing material that fall just outside the scope of this Mediagraphy may be found in the bibliography included elsewhere in this work.

CAVEAT

The information included here is drawn primarily from distributors' catalogs, reviews in periodicals, and other printed literature. In those cases, the information here is only as accurate as the source from which it was obtained. Where possible, the information was obtained or verified by personal inspection of the item. This Mediagraphy was compiled over a period of more than three years, and some of the information, especially prices, has not been rechecked since as far back as 1975. Though it is as accurate as limitations of time and work allowed, it is inevitable in a work of this type and size that there will be inadvertent omissions, errors, and obsolete data. This Mediagraphy should not, therefore, be used as a shopping list, but only as a guide to what is available. Always first contact the source given for each item to verify current availability and prices, as well as any special conditions that may apply.

Inclusion or exclusion of an item in this Mediagraphy does not imply an endorsement, evaluation, or other value judgement by the compiler or the Gallaudet College Library. All descriptions included here are intended to be nonevaluative.

FEEDBACK

The compiler solicits corrections, additions, deletions, suggestions, and other comments from you, the user, for inclusion in future editions of the Mediagraphy. In particular, he would like to hear from schools for the deaf and other organizations of and for the deaf having locally-produced materials they would like to share with others.

HOW TO USE THE MEDIAGRAPHY

The body of this work is divided into four parts: a Main Entry section, a Title Cross-Reference section, a Source section, and a Source Cross-Reference section. Perusal of the following explanations should make clear the contents and use of the various sections.

MAIN ENTRY SECTION

This section contains all the basic information about each item except where to get it. It is arranged alphabetically by loose subject groups, subarranged alphabetically by title. Below is a sample entry from the Main Entry section, together with explanations of the various parts:

Education and rehabilitation ID: 195
TITLE: Della

16mm 12 min. col. sd. 1971 SOURCE NUMBER: 43

ANNOTATION:
Shows a 35-year-old deaf paraplegic before, during, and after her rehabilitation. Shows her present independent life and her positive influence on deaf children in her community.

"Education and rehabilitation" is the subject group within which this entry will be found;
"ID: 195" is a unique identifying number assigned to this entry;
"16mm" indicates the medium of this entry;
"12 min.", "col." and "sd." provide further physical description;
"1971" is the release date;
"SOURCE NUMBER: 43" refers you to the Source section to find the name, address and telephones of the distributor for this item.

Following is a list of the abbreviations used in the main entry section:

AC	Audiocassette
AT	1/4" audiotape on open reel
b&w	Black and white
BVC	1/2" Beta-format videocassette
cap	Captioned (subtitled)
col	Color

TITLE CROSS-REFERENCE SECTION

This section is an index, by title, to the main entry section. The first column lists the title of each item alphabetically; in the second column is the name of the subject group within the main entry section where you will find the entry for that title.

SOURCE SECTION

Included in this section are the names, addresses, and voice and TTY telephone numbers of the sources where the items in the Main Entry Section may be obtained, as well as a title list of the items available from that source. The source number found in the main entry for each title refers to this section. Only the primary source for each item is given; in some cases, it may be available from other sources as well.

SOURCE CROSS-REFERENCE SECTION

This section is an index, by source name, to the source section. Looking up a known source name in the first column, then reading across to the second column will give you the number in the source section where the source's address, telephone numbers, and items available may be found.

SOURCES OF CAPTIONED FILMSTRIPS

Following is a list of sources of captioned filmstrips. The numbers after each source refer to the source directory in this mediagraphy.

Although these captioned filmstrips usually were not made with the hearing impaired in mind, they have long been beneficial to the hearing impaired as a medium that is not dependent upon sound. He suggests the possibility of hearing loss to a teacher, who agrees and arranges an appointment with the school doctor and a specialist who find hearing loss. At first, Shana and her mother refuse to acknowledge the problem and resent what they consider to be "meddling" on the part of Fat Albert and the teacher. It takes a close rescue from the path of an oncoming truck which went unheard to force a realization of the truth. After being fitted for a hearing aid, Shana discovers a world of sound she had not known before, and makes up with the Kids. Bill Cosby appears in live-action segments with a young man who demonstrates sign language. (Series: Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids)

One day, the mistress of the estate makes him her porter. He falls in love with a laundress, only to have her taken away. His need for affection is filled by finding a starved, half-frozen puppy and nursing it back to health. But his happiness comes to an abrupt end as the mistress orders little Mumu destroyed. Sadly, the peasant complies, then turns his back on the mistress and begins the long walk back to his home village.
